

Outstanding Faculty Advisor Awards

The Outstanding Faculty Advisor Award honors one faculty member from each collegiate unit who has demonstrated outstanding service to the University through advising. Each award winner will receive $500 as a cash bonus or travel or an equipment allocation. In addition, each winner's department will receive $500 to spend on its advising program.

Each collegiate unit has written a philosophy of advisement by which it guides its advisement practices. The collegiate philosophy and the departmental practice statement should serve as the foci from which faculty advisors are chosen for this award. Please note that collegiate units are encouraged to send forward at least two nominations.

Procedures for Identification and Selection

1. The principal administrator for each unit shall call for nominations for the 2016-2017 Outstanding Faculty Advisor Award.
2. Faculty, staff, or students may make nominations and members may nominate themselves. Temporary, tenure-track, or tenured faculty members may be nominated.
3. Nominations should be no more than two pages and should consist of reasons why a faculty member should receive the award. Supporting materials may be provided. Nominations should be submitted to the principal administrator by February 24, 2017.
4. A collegiate process should be used to screen nominations and to make recommendations to the principal administrator.
5. The principal administrator shall forward her/his prioritized recommendations and documentation to the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs by March 3, 2017.
