What's Happening Week 10?

(optional) 1 November -- All Saints' Day

2 November -- All Souls' Day / El Dia de Los Muertos

And you're invited to join in on the Day of the Dead / El Día de los Muertos

Speaking of the dead, this week we visit dying pilgrims at the Ganges River in India; it's all part of their traditional "Life Cycle". It's another one of those "Rituals, Gatherings, and Ritual Gatherings" as we witnessed Weeks 7 and 8.

And we'll have other news this week from India

GENERAL COMMENTS FOR THE WEEK

Sunday Memo: “What’s Happening Week 10?”

Death is in the Air

This week we’re going to the city of Varanasi in India, located along the banks of the sacred Ganges River, where several families share with us their very last moments with their beloved relatives. We’ll visit with families who are saying goodbye to their relatives. To die in the city of Varanasi, on the banks of the sacred Ganges, is one of the most cherished of Hindu religious aspirations in India. It is a way of life and death not familiar to most of us.

In anthropology “Life Cycle” events involving life and death have always been of great interest, including how living folks interact with both their departing and departed ancestors, and how the transition from this life to the next (for those who believe in a next life) takes place.

And we’ll have a look at the week’s news from India.

"Trigger Alert"

Warning:
This Film Contains Graphic Images

"This documentary explores one of the most cherished of Hindu religious aspirations: to die in the city of Varanasi, on the banks of the sacred Ganges, in the faith that dying here assures liberation from the cycle of earthly life."

"In the city of Kashi [in the location of modern-day Varanasi] the power of Ganga, the Hindu mother-goddess of the Ganges River, is strongest. Each dawn she calls her children to the ghats, the steps leading down to the water's edge. The young and strong purify themselves in Ganga's polluted waves. The old and the infirm, too weak for rituals, wait for death. In time, Ganga carries their souls, released from the bondage of reincarnation, to heaven. Their bodies, as ash afloat her crests or flesh submerged in her depths, return to the river. Once privy only to the dead and those who mourned them, the final journey of the devout Hindu is the subject of Gayle Ferraro's latest film, 'GANGES: River to Heaven.'"

"Filmed in a hospice for the dying and on the ghats of Kashi, India's religious heart, 'GANGES' follows four families' struggle to grant a loved one's final wish: to go to heaven. In their common quest the families become a fraction of the hordes of Hindus drawn to Kashi's holy promise of freedom from reincarnation. As the clans prepare for death, the citizens of Kashi manage life—praying for health, dumping industrial waste, begging for pocket change, bathing their children, selling to tourists, monitoring fecal chloroform levels, cremating their mothers—all along the banks of the Ganges River. The families' preparations go virtually unnoticed on the river, where death is a daily part of life."

"GANGES: River to Heaven investigates the inextricable bond between a river and its people with unparalleled intimacy and depth. From the ghat workers gathering wood for the next cremation, to the chemists gathering water samples for contamination testing, each perspective sheds new light on India's evolving society and its unchanging veneration of the Ganges. The documentary of a sacred river, polluted from years of overuse, 'GANGES' wonders if the natural force strong enough to sculpt the peaks of the Himalayas and the beliefs of a nation will survive the adoration of generations to come."
